Air, Naval Units There Indefinitely

WASHINGTON, April 13 (UPI). -Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said today that the United States will maintain navai and air forces in Southeast Asia in-definitely but that there will be no fresh commitments of "massive manpower" there.

Mr. Laird also said that the merican offensive combat role in Vletnam will end this sum-mer, but that U.S. forces will be involved in some forms of defensive combat beyond that point.

He refused to say when the American presence in Victnam might end completely. Nor did he specify where the air and naval forces might he stationed. In a Pentagon news conference, the defense secretary sald that the Vietnamization program is succeeding and that the new thrust of Defense Department planning is aimed for when the war is ended.

In this respect, he said, the United States should give financial and arms assistance to the uations of Southeast Asia that would enable them to make the hest possible use of their own manpower and resources.

Aid, Yes; Troops, No

"We should not make the mistake of committing massive manpower to that part of the world," Mr. Laird said. "Milltary assis-tance—yes; American ground troops, manpower-no."

Mr. Laird said that he does, however, foresee the need to maintain other forms of U.S. military presence in Asia. He declined to comment on whether they would play a combat rolc and left open the length of time they might he needed.

Without making any prediction of a specific withdrawal date, Mr. Laird said that combat responsibility in Vietnam will he turned over to the Vietnamese command "in the summer period." He dcnied that any mauling suffered by the South Vietnamese Army during the invasion of Laos had slowed down this process.

Army in Push To Ouell Revolt

NEW DELHI, April 13 (AP1. --The Pakistan Army of Presi-dent Yabya Khan pushed across East Pakistan today in a massive advance to try to whee out Sheikh Mujibur Rahman's independence movement before the summer monsoon sets in.

Reports reaching the Indian border said that the sheikh's followers were fleeing cities and towns held by them until a few days ago on the western side of the Ganges and Padma rivers, which bisect the secessionist province.

The army reportedly crossed the Ganges River unopposed. Panic had seized the local "liberation" forces, who had few arms to match the heavy wcapons of the soldiers from the western province.

Continuous rains begin in April and become a full monsoon by May or June, and that fact was seen as an impetus for the army drive.

Indian press reports said in dispatches from the border that the sheikh's lieutenants had officially proclaimed an indepen-dent government of Bangla Desh -the new name, meaning "Ben-gali nation," that they have given to their province.

Algeria Sets Own Oil Price, Army sources elaborated that French Firms' Compensation

> ALGIERS, April 13 (NYT) ----President Houari Boumedienne today announced a substantial increase in the posted price of Algerian oil and called for a massive reduction of Algeria's wine production.

Both moves were closely related to the stalled negotlations with France. Algeria's leading trading partner.

Addressing delegates from worker-managed farms at a "socialist agricultural" congress at the Palace of Nations, near Algiers, Col. Boumedienne spelled out Algeria's position with regard to cooperation, with France and particular with the French in companies Algeria virtually nationalized earlier this year.

The posted price of Algerian oil, the president declared, will from now on be $3.50 a barrel, making it the most expensive in the Mediterranean area. The posted price of oll is more or less a fiction which is used to calculate taxes. Taxes collected by Algeria amount to 50 percent of the posted price.

The new price is retroactive to March 20, It is 15 cents higher than the posted price recently agreed on at Tripoli among oil importers and the other Mediterraoean producers.

Col. Boumedienne also specified the amount of indemnification that Algeria will offer the French oil companies for the shares seized by Algeria Feb. 24, when upped its interest from 49 to ٠lt 51 percent in each firm. This will be $100 million, roughly oneseventh of the amount the companies claim, as estimated by Elf-Erap, the French government oil company.

This, the Algerian president said, is a take-it-or-leave-lt proposition and there will be no hagyling. This appeared in line with speculation heard here that the indemnification might be offered in crude oll, at the new prices.

No more concession for oil prospecting or oil exploiting will be granted exclusively to foreign companies, Col. Boumedienne said, adding that Sonatrach, the Algerian state monopoly in oil. must be a 51 percent stockholder 'in all such operations.

This system is already working successfully for some ten foreign companies, mostly American, who cooperate with Sonatrach in various aspects of the oil huslness in Algeria.

Col. Boumedienne at this same time announced that thousands of acres of vineyards would be converted to grain product.or and cattle raising.

"If the French won't buy our wine," he said, "we will stop buying their milk and butter and e. We will produce our own and buy from other sources."

France Withholds Comment PARIS, April 13 (NYT),-French officials withheld comment today on the oil measures announced by President Boumedienne. On wages, he said "there is less evidence of progress, al-though there are small scattered signs [of improvement]." He cautioned that all of the detailed wage data are "blurred" by the effects of the auto strike last year. "It is true that there are scattered bits and pieces of hopeful evidence." he said, "but first-year settlements are not moving down the way they will have to move down if we are to have a mora stable cost level." Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said at a news couference in her parliamentary constituency of Rae Barelli, 300 mlies southeast of New Delhi, that her government "will consider" the issue of recognition of Bangla Desh.

She also said, according to Indian news agencies, that India would continue to sympathize with the East Pakistani independence movement despite Communist China's "open support" of the Pakistan military government.

"Our attitude does not depend on others," she was quoted as saying. "We take decisions independently."

Indian agencies also said that she told members of the local legislature belonging to her Congress party that India would not remain a silent spectator to what was happening in the neighboring province

Unions Schedule New Round Of Major Walkouts in Italy

ROME, April 13 (UPI).-Organized labor ended an Easter truce today and ordered new strikes to disrupt or paralyze mail and telephone services, shipping, tourism, law courts and freight transportation.

The strikes will begin at midnight today with law clerks, truck irivers and imporeds of doctors in Milan starting walkouts that are expected to reach a peak at the cud of the week. Also on strike were hotel workers in Genoa and Savona. But they were to end their walkout at midnight tonight. Hotel employees in Milan were to strike for 48 hours starting at midnight. More than 170,000 post office workers will go on strike for 24 hours at midnight to protest delays by the government in enforcing a naw contract. Their action was expected to slow mail deliveries to a trickle and disrupt telephona services. Law court clerks started a three-day walkout today. Some courts were expected to close until the strike-called because of economic issues-is ended.

One of the more serious strikes, from an employer's view, was one by truck drivers, shipping agents and freight office clerks that besan last night.

The 48-hour strike was expected to hamper movement of meat, milk and other produce between cities and into Italy from other countries by road.

Maritima workers announced an 11-day strike starting April 20. Shipping companies warned that it could halt movement of all Italian and some foreign vessels. The issue in this case is payment of health and welfare benefits.

Hotel Walkout

The nation's 150,000 hotel employees, who struck for two days before Easter, said that they planned another nationwide walkout unless action is taken on their pay demands.

Strike actions also are being threatened hy teachers, hus drivers, railway workers, Rome shop owners and chemical and textile workers. All have threatened or scheduled strikes hefore April 29.

The elder Tannehill said: "It doesn't aound like him. He never expressed thoughts like that before. He's searching for something to believe in. Let's put it that way."

He said his son is a "young person who is intelligent and reads a lot" and who may bave some ideas he is not prepared to handle.

Nixon Hears Two Taiwan

Supporters

By Chalmers M. Roberts WASHINGTON, April 13 (WP). -President Nixon met yesterday with two of Nationalist China's atrongest supporters, one official and the other unofficial, just as he is considering what changes to make in American policy toward mainland China.

Paying a formal farewell call before returning today to Taipei to become Chiang Kai-shek's new foreign minister was Chow Shu-Taiwan's ambassador bere kai, since July, 1965.

Paying an informal call was Anna Chennault, widow of Flying Tiger Gen. Claire Chennault and a long-time supporter of Taiwan. The ambassador waa quoted later by an aide as saying the primary purpose of his call was to say farewell.

'Interesting Chat'

Mrs. Chennault said later that she had been invited by Mr. Nixon to report on ber four-week trip, completed two weeks ago, to eight non-Communist Aslan nations. She said that it had been an "interesting chat" of more than an bour.

Whether Mr. Nixon disclosed to either visitor what he has decided, or will decide, about China policy was not known.

Last Month, Mr. Nixon took public notice of what he termed "the apprehension" in Taiwan about the shift in emphasis here from ali-out opposition to Communist Chinese membership in the United Nations to one of support for continuing Nationalist Chinese membership. He also said that "under no circumstances will we proceed with a policy of normalizing relations with Communist China if the cost of that policy is to expel Taiwan from the family of nalons.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai recently told American writer Edgar Snow that, if Taiwan is expelled, then Peking would con-sider entering the United Nations. Many diplomats believe that the UN General Assembly this year, or certainly in 1972, will vote Peking in and Talpei out, unless some new formula can be found to satisfy both. But each contends that it is the legitimate govern-ment of all China.

Many here think Mr. Nixon will

U.S. to Reveal Decision Soon On China Trade and UN Seat

-A State Department spokesman said today the United States will announce soon its decision on China trade policy and the question of Chinese representation at the United Nations. Press officer Robert J. Mc-

Closkey at the same time declared there is no "organic connection between the U.S. decision and the recent thaw which led Peking to invite the American table-tennis team to China."

Mr. McCloskey confirmed that the U.S. team carried an invitation from a private group in the United States for the world champlon Chinese team to visit the United States, He said the Chinese team could be accompanied by journalists if they so desired. Asked by newsmen if the United States will encourage further Chinese contacts with private cultural, scholastic and journalistic groups outside the U.S. gov-ernment, he replied with a hearty Yes, indeed.'

"The best evidence of our earn-est sincerity," he said, "is the total lifting of any restrictions on American passports for travel to the People's Republic of China." But Mr. McCloskey declined to confirm reports that the United States bas decided to ease its near-total trade embargo and drop its opposition to the seating of Peking at the UN Géneral Assembly as the result of Peking's Hence, it appears to many to hospitality to the table-tennis be too late for the sort of twoteam. We would be interested to see if the Chinese will be sending their team to the United States. We have no information abont that."

He pointed out that for a number of months the United States has conducted a two-track review of its pollcy toward mainland China. The first has to do with efforts to improve bilateral relations. The second review concerns the international question of Chinese representation at the United Nations. He said he did not expect one decision by President Nixon to cover both tracks of the review. Mr. McCloskey declined to answer questions aboot the Chinese seat on the UN Security Council and the question of the veto which the Nationalist government can exercise.

As for resumption of ambassadorial talks at Warsaw, he said the United States is ready to resume the dialogue there, but "We need some indication from the Chinese that they are similarly interested."

Vietnamization Plan Reviewed After Laos

SAIGON, April 13. (AP) .- Tha performance of South Vietnamese performance al south vietnamese troops in the Laos operation and tha current North Vietnamese offensive in the Central High-lands is causing U.S. officials to reassess the Vietnamization pro-ETSM.

It was learned today that the U.S. 7th Air Force is planning a complete reorganization and con-solidation of its squadrons in South Vietnam to become more proficient in providing cover for withdrawing American forces. During President Nixon's sev-enth phase cutback of 100,000 troops between May 1 and next Dec. 1, Air Force withdrawals likely will be kept to a minimum. The Air Force now has the second largest contingent of troops in South Vietnam, with 40,500 airmen; the Army has the largest, 223,100.

Sources said that under the new Air Force program, certain types of aircraft will be consoli-dated instead of being widely dispersed. This will provide for easier maintenance, keep more airplanes in the air and help offset the withdrawals, Air Force sources said.

Both the Laotian operation and tha current North Vietnamese offensive point up one major weakness of Vietnamization, or the turning over of the war effort to the South Vietnamese, these sources continued. This is the South Vietnamese dependency on American air power. The South Vietnamese Air Force is not yet strong enough and does not have enough planes or firepower.

U.S. military will soon downgrade lts command system in South Vietnam's two middle military regions in order to reflect the U.S. Army's transition from a combat role to a support and ad-visory function as American troop withdrawals continue, military sources disclosed today. The planned move, which is expected to be announced soon, will abolish the two Field Force -or combat force-commands that currently direct American combat operations and military assistance programs in Military Region 3, which takes in the provinces around Salgon, and Military Region 2, which em-braces the Central Highlands to the north.

The Field Force commands will be replaced by "regional assis-tance commands," the sources said. When they are established, the new commands will control what remains of the U.S. combat forces in the two military regions. Additionally, as these combat units are withdrawn, the commands will direct the many thousands of American servicemen who will train, support and transport the South Vietnamese copters today around Fira Base 6 in an attempt to break the North Vietnamese siege of the outpost. American planes dropped more 7.5-ton bombs on Communist units around the hase. Tha South Vietnamese task force flown in to try to lift the slege of Fire Base 6 included six battalions of infantry and three battalions of paratroopers, all of whom landed within a mile of the outpost, located 12 miles from the borders of hoth Laos and Cam-

'Crucial' Question

"As our American troops return from Vietnam in increasing numbers, one of the most crucial questions facing the nation is what they return to," Mr. Nixon said in a statement.

He said that GI benefits had been improved sobstantially in the last two years, "but the dis-maying fact is that unemployment among Vietnam-cra veterans still is significantly greater than it is among nonveterans in the same age bracket."

Administration officials estimated that about 12 percent of these veterans are currently unemployed, in contrast to roughly

9 percent among civilians in the same age group, 20 to 29. The officials said that the number of veterans seeking training under the GI Bill was np 240 percent over the figure for 1966, but that there were at least one million veterans with low-income backgrounds and only about 15 percent. of them were enrolled in penefit activities. The demonstration project, to be co-sponsored by the National Urban Coalition, will seek to reach the low-income veterans in Los Angeles, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago. Indianapolis and five other cities yet to he selected.

Solzhenitsyn Reported Unable Grand Jury Probes Funds To Find a Russian Publisher For Wallace By Bernard Gwertzman

Brother's Role Said To Interest Tax Men

By Kenneth Reich ATLANTA, April 13 .- A federal grand jury began hearings in Montgomery, Ala.. yesterday in connection with a wide-ranging Internal Revenue Service investigation of numerous appointees, associates and top fund con-tributors of Gov. George C. Wal-lace, an unimpeschable source disclosed.

The governor's brother, Gerald O. Wallace, was said to be a prime figure in the income tax probe, which also concerns the alleged routing of political contributions through an advertising agency and their olleged illegal listing as business expense deductions on income tax returns.

Both the 1966 Alabama guberlishers. natorial campaign, in which Gov. Wallace's late wife, Lurleen, ran for governor, and Gov. Wallace's 1968 presidential campaign were reported to be involved in the evidence being submitted to the 23-member grand jury. Special attorneys have been sent by the U.S. Justice Department from Washington to assist local Justice Department person-nel and IRS attorneys in the presentation, which is expected to take a week or longer.

At the state capitol. Gov. Wallace's press secretary Billy Joe Camp labeled the probe "just an attempt from Washington to dry up the governor's campaign funds.

"No one here is too excited about it," he added. He said that Gov. Wallace himself would make no immediate comment. The U.S. attorney in Montgomery Ira Dement, meanwhile, released his statement saying that he was removing himself from the matter because he had once represented a client in private practice who may be called as a witness involving a case Mr. Dement had handled for "Lawyers and judges frequently remove themselves from cases where they have previously represented a person who might be involved in the case," Mr. Dement said. He declined comment over what matters the grand jury was investigating. However, it was learned that the evidence being submitted relates in part to a probe of maoy months conducted by the IRS into the tax returns of Geraid Wallace, 49, a Montgomery attorney and other former and current Wallace associates. Also a subject of the probe were the records of a southern Alabama public relations and advertising agency used by the Wallace campaign, through which contributions could have been routed. The reported involvement of Gerald Wallace in the current grand JULLA dearings recall special meeting the governor held with members of his cabinet shortly after his inauguration on Jan, 18 in which he reportedly warned against "influence peddling" hy members of his family. A source who participated in the meeting quoted the governor as saying: "There is only one governor of this state, and his name is George, not G. O."

Fire Out, But Oil Flows Into Gulf

NEW ORLEANS, Apri 13 (AP). The largest offshore oil fire in history, which had burned on a Shell Oil company drilling plat-form since Dec. 1, was extinguished by high-pressure hoses yesterday. But oil continued to flow into the Gulf of Mexico, officials said. A Shell spokesman said attempts to clog the well from heneath the sea had failed and the company would try instead to plug tha well from the surface. Workmen began a new effort to undermina the well by drilling another beside ft.

The fire started when one well blew out and killed four men on the platform, where 22 working wells were clustered. Estimates of loss from the fire have ranged from $36 million to $47 million, including tha $53,000 a day from lost production and the $210,000 a day in pollution control and fire fighting.

LONDON, April 13 (UPI) .- A Middle East oll sheikh is advertising for a whole air force. It is not just the odd pilot that Prince Alhmed Bin All al-Thani of Qatar, in the Persian Gulf, is seeking. He wants the works-top brass and trained men to handle fighters, helicopters and missiles.

His display ad, headlined "Air Force Appointments," ran in the Sunday Telegraph. It referred interested parties to a box number and those responding found that the prince was offering to double the pay of experienced Royal Air Force and Fleet Air Arm pilots if they joined his new air force. "Wa have no objections," an RAF spokesman said last night. "Our training is probably the best in the world. And it is quite common for overseas air forces to recruit our pilots."

The prince wants tha men to bolster his defense forces following British moves to withdraw troops from the gulf. His nation exports cbout £10 million worth of oil a year-most of It to Britain.

The ad did not mention pay, hut air force sources said those answering it were told the man who gets the commander's job could be assured of at least £10,000 a year.

The British government has already agreed that Qatar can buy rebuilt Hunter jets and Whirlwind helicopters to build up its defenses.

Poland, unfortunately, was represented neither by a performing group nor by the country's two leading composers - Lutoslawski and Penderecki.

Webern et al.

In the end, the strongest musical impressions were those left by the patron saints-living and otherwise. Webern was represented by French, premieres of posthumously published works excavated by the American musicologist Hans Moldenhauer. They were two pieces for cello and piano written when the composer was a post-romantic 14, and more representative works-part of a sonata for cello and piano from 1914 and three songs, sensitively sung by Anna Ringart. Elsewhere the strongest impressions were made by Karlheinz Stockhausen, in his most congenial, or least weighty and gar-rulous, form. His "Adieu" was an understated, extended sigh for a standard wind quintet. Also by Luigi Dallapiccola, whose "Exhortatio" drew more heavily on Italian lyric tradition than many of his works; by Bruno Maderna, "Grande Aulodia" was a whose beguiling concerto for the various and sundry flutes and oboes of Severino Gazzelloni and Lothar Paber, and most conclusively by Bela Bartok, in the final work of the festival, in which the Orchestre Philharmonique of the

sent the first spntnik into space; it is just ten years since Yuri Gagarin became the first man to venture in that vast arena of the stars. In the decade that followed Col. Gagarin's pioneer flight, unmanned prohes have reached toward Venus and Mars, and men have walked upon the moon. With all the turmoil, fear and misery that stalks the earth, these expensive and risky voyages beyond the tight-packed globe that is man's home have been much decried-but perhaps the stars offer hope.

The Soviet Union has annually honored the date of Col. Gagarin's mission as Cosmonautics Day. It has had a special polgnancy since the death of the first apace man in a plane crash three years ago; it has always had nationalist significance for the Soviet people and government. But Monday's Cosmonautics Day was specialnot only because it was the tenth anniversary, but because of the great emphasis placed by both Soylet scientists and their American colleagues on the need for international collaboration in this challenging area.

When one remembers the tensions of early rivalry in space, the frequent calls both upon national pride and national fears that marked it, this attitude marks a great step forward. When it is coupled with the kind of diplomatic and scientific cooperation that has been shown in the neutralization and exploration of Antarctica, and of the seabed, one can almost glimpse the day when man-global man-will be more con-

It is nearly 14 years since the Soviet Union cerned with the joint study and management of his common environment than with the few square miles of shell-pitted soil that occasion so many of his deadly quarrele.

There is much that is extremely useful tn he learned from space. Already, communicatione, weather-forecasting, and the application nf miniaturized technology to a vast number of practical employments have been revolutionized hy the space probes. And there are still many mysteries to be solved in man's next decade in space.

For these purposes, the American emphasis on manned flights and the Soviet development of highly sophisticated automatic devices can play mutually supporting roles. Particularly when the orbital laboratories come into action, the old days of tightly enclosed capsules. of individual or smallteam activitles, should give place to the interchange, not only of information, but of men and physical properties high above the earth.

And out of this interchange must, almost necessarily, come new insights into the systems and the human elements that go into lt. When one considers what table tennis is achieving along these lines in China, how much more can mutual respect be stimulated by hours of work together on the vast complex that supports journeys into outer space? One American, apparently, has glimpsed beauty in Mao's thought across a table-tennis net: other Americans may see Marx in Lunokhod, But such communication is bound to be a two-way street, once that street is opened.

Crisis of Confidence

When President Nixon addressed the nation iast week he appeared painfully aware how tenuous had become the confidence of the American people in their leadership." Repeating his promise to end the war, he recalled the many earlier occasions of similar assurances and asked, almost wistfully, "But can you believe this?"

The crisis of confidence cannot be blamed on any one cause, not even the war, nor on on any one person, party or administration. It is an inevitable consequence of the failure of leadership to speak the truth to the American people however distasteful that truth may be. Governmental courage and candor have tended in recent years to give way to poll-dominated image-building and to the sugar-coating of unpleasant realities.

Retreats are interpreted as victories, as in the most recent experience in Laos. An abortive foray into a deserted prisoner-ofwar camp is hailed as a logistical triumph. The court-martial of a Lt. Calley is instantly. reassessed as a political rather than a Statistics is suddenly stopped from explaining its data when such an analysis might remind the American public that all is not well with the economy. These and many other exercises in deception-some petty, some gigantic-teil much about the leadership's estimate of the character and stamina of the American people. One wonders what would have happened to the Allied cause in World War II had Winston Churchill taken so dim a view of the British people's will to face adversity. Would President de Gaulle have extricated France from its disastrous involvement in Algeria had he felt that Frenchmen could not be made to face up to a harsh blow to the national pride?

In a more confident past, American Ideals were trusted to gain admiration and acceptance on the strength of their own values. Today, no longer buoyed by that original faith in the contagion of a better and more just society, American politicians are infecting the nation instead with a missionary obsession to support any move that seems to stand for the American way of international law and order. Such crusading fervor always breeds an erroneous belief in the omnipotence of self-righteous goals, and intolerance of those equally patriotic Americans who may disagree with either the goals themselves or the way to achieve them. This is the antithesis of an earlier, humbler faith that a free society has its own inner strength that will gain adherents of its own accord. The most alarming symptom of today's malaise is the nation's loss of confidence in Itself. What has happened to the American faith in freedom when the government appears convinced that its security depends on an elaborate apparatus of internal nolitical and moral issue. The Bureau of Labor surveillance ominously reminiscent of secret police systems? Far less significant than the actual or potential abuse of such governmental powers is the damage done to the American self-image and to the mutual trust between government and people, between citizens and neighbors. There is nothing new and remarkable in the fact that radicals of the right and of the left share a deep contempt for the institutions of a free society. But today such contempt-born of a lack of confidencehas hegun to spread to the vital center, When leadership shows little confidence in the maturity and strength of the people, a nation loses confidence in its government and ultimately in Itself.

R<sup>IO</sup> DE JANEIRO. - When President dc Gaulle visited Brazil a few years ago he asked the then military dictator, Gen. Castelo Branco, just what a Latin-American military dictator was. Castelo Branco replied: "A mao, not necessarily a general, who finds it pleasant to get power and extremely unpleasant

WASHINGTON. - Lt. William helng vague and unwrltten, have Calley has brought Amer-icans together. Where presiden-tial exhortation has failed, this young junior officer's conviction has succeeded. According to a Gallup poll commissioned by Newsweek, 79 percent of Amer-icane disapproved of the court-martial finding in the Calley case. When was the last time they have been in almost 80 percent agreement about anything?

المحمصين الروور أوالد بالمحصر الرجاوي والقلا والمراجع والمتحج فتحجج والمراجع

True, they disagree furlously in their reasons for agreement. To doves, Calley's crimes at My Lai are a proper symbol of the vicious war in Vietnam. It proves to them, if any further proof were needed, that this war is the nhscenity they have known it to be right along. But Calley to them is nn more guilty, perhaps less so than the high command, both civilian and military, that is re-sponsible for America's involvement in Southeast Asia and for contriving the tactics the Calleys only carry out. His trial is an-nther stick for beating Presidents and generals.

To hawks, what few of them are left, Calley is a victim of hetrayal hy the Army he served. He did his duty as he saw it, impaired as his vision was. War is a hell whose inhabitants include women and children and whether they are killed by bomb or artillery at long range or by rifle at short range makes no essential difference. Under etress nf hattle, a soldier may be excused for a lapse of judgment Anyway, it can be assumed that other Calleys remain uncaught and unpunished. Why, the hawks say, should this Calley be the scapegoat?

Emotional Outpouring

These reactions are more or less understandable. Less so is the emotion of the thousands who classify neither as hawk nor dove who have inundated the White House and Congress with telegrams of protest. Some of them are unhappy parents whose sons have been drafted and who fear that their boys may be ruined. by the Army. Others, no doubt, feel that this war, like all American wars, is "us" against "them' and that what Americans do to them is justified hy what they do to Americans.

It is probably too much to hope that this feeling derives not from xenophobia but from a true understanding of what a Vict Cong combat hamlet is-or rather was, because few of them have survived pacification. They were settle-ments where all the inhabitants were willingly or unwillingly subjected to guerrilla discipline; where women were capable of throwing hand grenades and children of tripping pre-planted land mines; where fanaticism dehumanized people.

However, even understanding of this kind should not excuse the wanton slaying of unarmed civilians and children in arms fter they have been questions than it answers. There is surely a distinction between the crimes of national leaders who ordered extermination of six mul-lion Jewe as a matter of deliberate genocidal policy and the killing of civilians in Vletnam, Cambodia and Laos in the prosecution. of a war against invaders and guerrillas, a war in which the ground rules have been dictated by the enemy. Yet the difference is not quite as apparent in the case of Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, who was hanged because his men killed 20,000 Filipines even though it was never provid that he ordered those killings of that he knew about them when they occurred.

Some American critics of the Nuremberg and Tokyo trials have always contended that ther were unjustified hecause they seemed to accept the proposition that among the victor's legitimate spoils is the right to judge the culpability of the defeated. and that the victor need never himself be judged.

Sheehan's differentiation between the Second World War, where the cause was presuma-hly just, and the Vietnam war, where it presumably isn't, echces a favorite and highly questlonable dove thesis. Bombing of cities may have been justified in the war against Hitler, he contends, because "opposting industrial societies were fighting a war of survival." War workers were as important as combatants. Cities were seats of war industry. Moreover, the contest was fairer because both sides had air power.

Dresden's Fate

But Dresden was not a seat of war industry. It was bombed, as Tokyo was, for the primary purpose of hastening enemy capitulation by demoralizing the civilian population. When the first ftomic bombs were used on two Japanese cities, that was the purpose and it worked, but at great cost. Germany at the end of the Second World War was almost as naked of aircraft as North Vietnam is. And the North Vietnamese ground-to-air defenses are far better than Germany's

Missing in Bonn

Every election should be an occasion for every party to sit back and take a long look at itself, but following the elections in Berlin and the Rhineland Palatinate, Christlan Democrats and Free Democrats have considered the results a private matter. Whether the Free Democrats and Christian Democrats draw one set of conclusions or another from the data is not particularly important for the Federal Republic as a whole, at least not at the moment. What matters is what happens now in the Social Democratic camp. For the SPD not only provides this country with the chancellor but also leads a government for which there is no convincing alternative at the moment, nur in the foreseeable future.

Sheehan's Study

Soul - searching about the morality of the war in Vietnam didn't start with the Calley verdict: it only became more general. A large body of literature on the subject of war crimes was reviewed at length in the Sunday book section of the The New York Times on March 28. The reviewer, Neil Sheeban, an experienced Vietnam war correspondent, was widely acclaimed for his essay. He made several points: (1) a multimillion-dellar tax break for business, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) yesterday extended until April 26 the time for submission of written comments or suggestions on the pro-DOSal.

Key Rate Affected Market analysts noted that the sharp gain in these rates will mean an increase in one key rate administered by the Federal Reserve System, the rate on socalled repurchase agreements. In a repurchase agreement the Fed buys securities from a dealer who agrees to buy them back later and pay a specified rate of interest over the period. Such arrangements are used by the Fed to pump money temporarily into the banking system and give dealers inventory financing. In recent weeks, the Fed has been charging a 3 3'4 percent rate on such agreements, but it will have to raise the rate because, under law, it is not permitted to charge less than the average rate set on 13-week bills at the most recent auction. Dealers say the Fed has been fostering the increases in shortterm rates to slow the flight of interest-sensitive dollars to countries offering higher yields and to temper greater-than-desired growth in the U.S. money sup-

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

British Unit Raising Coal Prices Big increases in coal prices were appounced by

Britain's National Coal Board. Industrial coal prices will rise by about 11 percent. As the main user is the Central Electricity Generating Board. this is likely to produce increases in electricity charges. Smokeless fuels-i.e. processed coals-are to go up by about 16 percent, and this will nea Buin Steel Corp. their main user, which just raised its prices 7 percent. Other coal prices will go up 7 to 8 percent. The board said the rises would bring in about £70 million ($168 million) in additional revenue in 1971-72 and should enable it to break even.

are a constant source of theoretical controversy. Both one spade and one heart have their disadvantages, and a small minority of experts favor the use of some artificial bid to indicate this difficult group of hands.

Cohen adopted the traditional bid of one spade and showed his hearts when his partner conservatively responded one no-trump. North had to show his additional values somehow and was in difficulty. He raised to three hearts, hoping that the honor strength would compensate for the lack of four-card support, and South accepted the invitation to game.

mood of autumnal stillness А hovers over this work, one of regret for vanished beanties, for glorious moments that have disappeared forever. It is almost as if Harold Acton were writing not his memoirs but those of another whose life he knew he could never duplicate. Everything lies in the past: the art, the liter-ature, the buildings, the experi-ences, the values, even the people For Acton admits that those who have meant more to him belonged to an older generation: Bernard Berenson, Max Beer-bohm, Norman Douglas, Osbert Sitwell among others. And even his nearer contemporaries, like Evelyn Waugh, were those who shared his feeling for a vanished

Although Acton is partly Amer-ican, it is interesting how he was turned off by an extended visit to this country after World War II. He could appreciate the dy-namism of America, but he was not attracted by it and certainly did not want to be swept up by is energy. There was more life for him in the museums, libraries and private collections of good friends than in the streets and alleyways of Chicago, for exsupple,

Even in the circles in which he moved in America, the process of social life did not please him. The men disappeared during the day, spending their time making money, and surfaced at cocktail time with other things on their mind besides an exquisite Chinese scroll in the Nelson Gallery in Kansas City or the Impressionist paintings at the Chicago Art In-stitute. Only the women were around to fill up the day. The decencies of everyday life were slighted. He describes how Evelyn Waugh in Los Angeles berated a headwaiter because a restaurant that should have known better served "tinned" asparagus. And though Acton is English, he is not quite English either He belongs, measured by everything that counts, to Italy. He is not being finicky when he describes himself as "Anglo-Piorentine." La Pietra, the home with its art and gardens that his father developed and where Acton now lives, is near Florence. He knows the art of Italy up and down the peninsula, what's on public view and what's in private collections, the scholars who have commented on it, and the custodiaris and connoisceurs who have devoted their lives to it. He loves the land, the people, the customs and ceremonies. Compare the censorious note in his writing about Mexico with the genuine affection he shows the no less vulgar street crowds of Naples,

Assessed $16,750 For Cup Action

MONTREAL, April 13 (AP) .-Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, fined the Toronto Maple Leafs and the New York Rangers a total of $16,750 today for a series of brawls in their Stanley Cup quarter final playoff game last Thursday in New York, In assessing the fines, Camp-beil described the Garden brawl as "one of the most derogatory spectacles which the league has produced in recent years. Each club was fined $5,000 and individual players on the New York team received a total of $3,500 in fines while Toronto players were fined $3,250. Toronto's Darryl Sittler and the Rangers' Brad Park were each fined $450 while Mike Felyk, Toronto defenseman, and New York goaltender Ed Giacomin each received $400 fines. Giacomin and Toronto goalie

Bernle Parent were both involved in several of the numerous battles which punctuated the game eventually won by the play and when Parent got involved in the action and threw his mask to the ice, Ranger Vic Hadfield promptly picked it up ond threw it into the Madison Square Garden seats. It was never found, and Parent refused to play without the protection. Jacques Plante replaced him.

The Ranger-Maple series, like the two others still going on, is tied at 2-2 as action resumes tonight, Montreal is at Boston and Minnesota plays at St. Louis.

with Willie Davenport in the high hurdles. Impossible? Not if a recommendation by the International Amateur Athletic Federation council is approved next year by the federation's congress. At a council meeting last week in London, a proposal that could reshape the structure of international track and field was approved. It would allow professional athletes in other sports to compete as amateurs in track and field.

The proposal was referred to the congress, which will meet during the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich, with a recommendation for approval. At least one memoer of the council, Daniel J. Ferris of New York, believes it will be adopted.

"From discussions at the council meeting," Ferris told a lun-cheon of the Track Writers Association of New York yesterday, "I think it will be looked upon favorably by the congress." Ferris said that he had opposed the proposal, which was introduced by the United States.

"I was surprised to see so many people interested in the proposal," he said. "If approved next year, it would go into effect the follow-

WASHINGTON.-American spy Russia. Twenty of these holes are large enough to accommodate the higgest war rockets in the world, and naturally our intelligence people suspect the worst. That is all right for our intelligence people. They get paid to suspect the worst, but the rest of us have to pay through the nose, Baker the eyes, the ears, the teeth and the fingertips every time they leap to the worst pos-eible conclusion. If we unques-tioningly accept their judgment that those Russian holes have been dug to house super-rockets, we shall have to put up several more billions to tuck more rockets of our own into more holes in America.

Obviously it behooves us to think carefully about these Russian holes. The first possibility is that the Russians have devised cheap method for driving us to bankruptcy.

Someone in Moscow, with deep understanding of the American mentality, may have foreseen that we would reflexively reply to 20 Russian holes with $20 billion worth of new American rocketry. Assuming that the cost of digging a hole in Russia is comparable to what an American contractor would charge here, the Russians could get 20 fairly good-sized holes for about $200 million.

It would be well worth the cost if the holes could scare us into staking $20 billion into new war machinery, for we would have wasted 100 times as much money as the Russlans. . . .

Yes, wasted. Consider: Our rockets go into those holes for use only if we are attacked. But if the Russian holes have no weapons in them, they cannot very well attack us, and we, therefore, cannot use our expensive new weapons. Our policy of re-fusing to strike first, coupled, with our tendency to get alarmed about holes in Russia, thus seems to give the Russians an overwhelming advantage in any competition at which each country's object is to force the other's financial ruination.

This, of course, assumes that satellites have detected a lot Russian intelligence is more cunof big holes in the ground in ning than American intelligence, and sensible men will immediately reject this possibility. The obvious explanation of the Russian holes is far more consonant with what we know of both the Russian and the American mind. It seems unarguable that the Russian holes are not weapons of economic warfare but a defensire response to the many, many, many holes which Russian spy satellites have detected in America during the last few months. These gigantic holes must have caused consternation in the Kremlin-if that is where the Russian leaders still plot their deviltry. One can imagine them huddling over the satellite pictures emitting guttural cries, while technicians display hole after hole in America's unlikeliest locations.

They must surely have had, for example, an aerial photograph of the giant hole located right here in Washington in 23d Street between M and L Streets. A hole that close to the White House, big enough to house the largest rocket on earth! What must they have thought?

. . . They would surely not have realized that what they were eee-ing was a pothole. A satellits picture showing a hole as big as the 23d Street pothole, with that black gistening machinery buried deep within, would inevitahly have alarmed them.

The Soviet Union has its share of potholes, hut they would not have believed in one so big that it contained an entire Cadillac limousine and the diplomatic staff of a small neutral nation. Obriously their photo interpreters took the Cadillac in the 23d Street pothole for an intercontinental missile. It is obvious, then, that the Russians ara indeed planting missiles to retaliate against our potholes, and that we are in danger of putting in more missiles to retaliate against the Russian missiles that are being targeted. on our potholes. Can this insane race be stopped? Yes, and it must be. By a crash program to fill in our potholes. If the Cadillac cannot be rescoed, that heroic diplomatic staff will have to be paved over for peace. What finer end for those who have chosen diplomacy as a way of life?

The Foibles and Follies Of the Spanish Character

By Richard Eder

MADRID (NYT) -An army recruit from a village in Aragon was given leave to go home for his aunt's funeral. When he reported back, his khaki uniform-cap, straps, insignia and all-was black. He had dyed it for the occasion.

A call to the fire department in the town of Orihuela, in southeastern Spain, brings out a fireman on a bicycle. When he determines that there really is a fire, he pedals back to fetch the engine.

A railway company in Majorca asked the Public Works Ministry for permission to deny service to a commuter who not only wrote letters to the newspapers criticizing the line but insisted on repeating his complaints to the trainmen. "These things, and the impolite way in which they are done, irritate our personnel," the railway wrote. "There is a danger that he could be punched, and foreigners would hasten to take photographs."

These and hundreds of other vignettes, inscriptions, advertisements, announcements in provincial papers, funeral notices and offi-cial exhortations are set down in a collection of national fatuousness that has become a runawey best seller.

A Well-Mined Vein

The book, "Celtiberia Show," works a well-mined vein: the Span-ish national character. But the many books that Spaniards write the subject usually consist of theory, with little documentation. OD "Celtiberia Show" is all documentation; its theory is only implicit in the title.

"Celtiberianism" is a word that the philosopher Ortega y Gasset and others have used to describe a quality in Spanish life that comhines naiveté, provincialism and occasional boorishness with a kind of inspired egocentricity. The term suggests that the characteristics had their origins among the Celts and the Iberians, who settled Spain successively and had fused into a stubborn entity by the time the Romans extended their empire here in the third century B.C.

For two years Luis Carandell, a young Catalonian writer with a Swiss wife-"this gives me a certain perspective," he says-has been printing samples of celtiberica in a weekly column in a magazine, Triunfo. The book is a compilation of the columns.

The cumulative effect is a picture of a society that aspires in part to be modern, and even progressive, but that is still dominated by old rigidities and a deeply conservative way of life. "Catholic capitalist seeks husiness associates of good character."

an advertisement says. In a village church the priest, in an excess of modernity, installs a traffic light that he flashes red, yellow and en to signal to the congregants that they should kneel, sit or stand. Sexual taboos are touched on frequently. "Be cool this summer and burn in hell forever," a bishop tells the lightly clad women of his diocese. A tourist couple hires donkeys and the wife falls off and is bruised. The driver, patting the husband on the shoulder, says: "Don't be concerned, her skirt was down and we didn't see a thing."

"In other parts of Europe these vignettes would be isolated bits of quaintness," Mr. Carandell said in a conversation, "In Spain, they are our condition of life."

The attitude they express, he believes, reflects the closed nature of the political and social system under Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

A Disguise

Ha is not hopeful about a younger generation that, in manners and dress at least, seems to he more European, "Our Spanish hippies are all wearing a disguise," he said. "There's hardly a Spaniard of my generation who hasn't had terrible problems with his mother if he doesn't go to mass, or a Spanish girl whose father doesn't think it the end of the world if she goes off for the weekend."

Mr. Carandell gets 100 letters a week from readers offering new examples, but he doubts that the celtiberianism of his readers will be reduced.

"This book is criticism, of course, but at the same time it pourishes the Spaniard's self-complacency, his belief that he is different," the author explained.

An item in one of his columns told of a leaflet arguing for the canonization of a mother superior. The leaflet said that a woman who had prayed to her had subsequently managed to sell a piece of property at a better price than expected. Mr. Carandell thought that the item spoke for itsel.

"To my astonishment," he said, "in a few days I received letters from two women who were trying to sell land and who wanted me to send them the address of the leaflet's sponsors, so that they could offer novenas for the reverend mother.

Bierer announced the results of a sociological survey, to wit: American women are dominsering and their menfolk hennecked. Back in London this week after a second U.S. tour, the 70year-old Austrian-born doctor now says: "I had thought that the women wanted to rule the country, but now I have changed that opinion. Women are com-pelled to take over, not fighting to take over. It's still the Tatherless society' [a term Bierer coined after his '64 study] and the husbands are no husbands, but all the women are crying out for a strong man. He's just not there. In that competitive soclety the men are so thred when they come home from work that The Maharishi they are only too happy to let their wives take over all the responsibility for home and chiling that the two-month con dren.
